

SPECIES IN BOLD

Threatened (T) indicates a bird species that is protected under the Endangered Species Act of the State of Michigan. Also on this list are species of Special Concern (SC). While not afforded legal protection under the act, these species are of concern because of declining or relict populations in the state. If they continue to decline, they would be recommended for Threatened or Endangered status. Seven state-listed species can be found on this checklist.

STATUS CODES

The status codes indicate the highest level of breeding behavior that has been observed for a particular species in our parks and natural areas.

- 1: Observed during breeding season.
- 2: Probable breeder.
- 3: Confirmed breeder.

ABUNDANCE CODES

The abundance codes reflect the probability that a moderately skilled observer will find a particular species during the breeding bird season of late May to mid-July.

Abundant (A): Very likely to be seen in parks and natural areas, especially if in the appropriate habitat.

Common (C): Common in parks and natural areas, but may be a bit harder to find than an abundant species.

Uncommon (U): Less common and perhaps more secretive.

Rare (R): Few sightings over the years or very local to a particular park or natural area.

How do I get involved with NAP?

Join us at NAP public workdays to remove invasive species, improve trails, and collect and disperse native seeds. Sign up for the burn crew and help us conduct prescribed burns for a few weeks in early spring and fall after you've attended our annual training session held in late February. Join us at the Natural Features Inventory kickoffs this spring to learn about inventorying frogs & toads, salamanders, and breeding birds. Or help us document our restoration activities by taking pictures in the parks and become a Photo Monitor. Ready for more? Become a Park Steward or Adopt-a-Park. We're always looking for individuals who have an ongoing interest in a specific park who would like to help with workdays!

How can I help with the Breeding Bird Survey in the future?

Our Breeding Bird Survey Kickoff happens every year in mid-April- keep an eye on our website or call us for the precise day and time. Spend the winter studying your field guides and getting to know the most common birds by sight and sound. Go birding whenever you can, then come to the kickoff and learn how to record your observations and hone your skills. Learn more about the Breeding Bird Survey at <http://www.pwrc.usgs.gov/bbs/about/>.

Not ready to commit to the BBS, or just want to get outside and learn about birds? Join us for a bird-watching walk! Check our website or give us a call for the schedule. Learn more about area birds at <http://www.washtenawaudubon.org/>.

Field Checklist of Ann Arbor's Breeding Birds

The following birds have been found in Ann Arbor's parks and natural areas during the breeding season, May to July. The list was created using data collected by Breeding Bird Survey volunteers and Natural Area Preservation staff from 1995 to 2007. In that time period, there have been 124 breeding bird species observed! Why don't you head out to one of our 157 parks and see how many you can spot?
